

ROOSEVELT DISCUSSES POLITICS

Senator La Follette, Father of Insurgents, Spends Two Hours at Sagamore Hill

PLEASED WITH VISIT

Politicians Claim Col. Roosevelt Is Veering Towards the Radical Forces.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 28.—Robert M. La Follette, United States senator from Wisconsin, and the father of Republican insurgency, spent two hours yesterday afternoon talking politics with Theodore Roosevelt. He left Oyster Bay wearing a broad smile.

Senator Elmer Burkett, of Nebraska, another out-and-out insurgent, is coming to Sagamore Hill after Col. Roosevelt returns from Boston, he, too, will talk politics.

Representative Madison, of Kansas, irreconcilable insurgent and ardent defender of Gifford Pinchot as a member of the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigating committee, will be at Sagamore Hill probably late this week. His theme will be politics.

Within the last few days Colonel Roosevelt has talked politics with Gifford Pinchot and his ally, James R. Garfield.

Senator La Follette arrived early in the afternoon. He had with him G. E. Roe, a New York lawyer, who was formerly his law partner. Col. Roosevelt's chauffeur was waiting for them and whisked them away to Sagamore Hill.

The senator had pulled his hat down over his eyes and tried to escape unseen, but he was caught fairly at it by a group of newspaper men who saw the Roosevelt automobile.

The tackled him on suspicion, although nobody recognized him, for his hat hid his famous pompadour.

"Not a word," he said. "I'm going to Sagamore Hill, but I don't want a word said about it."

When he returned, just in time to catch a train for New York, he looked like a schoolboy who had just won a medal. He was smiling his most expansive, persuasive smile.

"It's all right, boys," he cried jovially. "The colonel says I may talk to you."

The train pulled out and so the group of interviewers hopped on with the senator and rode to the next station.

"Did we talk politics?" he replied to the first question.

"We did," and he emphasized the affirmative.

"We talked of the legislation of the present session of congress," he continued. "From the attitude of those members of the Republican party whom the newspapers are pleased to call insurgents."

"Can you go into details?" he asked.

"No, I prefer that they come from Sagamore Hill. I am very much pleased with the result of my visit with Colonel Roosevelt; very much pleased, indeed."

The senator paused for a moment, recalling the incidents of the afternoon.

Suddenly the smile left his face for the first time, and he said impressively:

"I want to tell you that Colonel Roosevelt is the greatest living American, and he is added slowly and significantly, 'he is in fighting trim.'" thickly clustered trees he had chopped half through.

"Wait just a moment, please," he called.

He raised his ax and whacked at the tree with a hard, true stroke. In another minute the tree quivered and then fell prostrate.

"Great exercise!" said the colonel, as he sat cross-legged on the fallen trunk, his ax across his knee.

"It is about the only exercise I get out here. I have just been in the hay field."

"I have spent the morning in going over this morning's mail," he continued. "I am willing to work as hard as any man, but I like to get somewhere."

"It reminds me of the famous cat which fell into the well and climbed one foot every day only to fall back two feet at night."

"The volume of mail has become so great that I left word at the post office to have it all sent back to my editorial office in New York."

The colonel said that Senator La Follette and Alex. Roe were the only visitors of the day, except two men who had come to consult with him about his western tour.

He agreed definitely to speak before the Milwaukee Press Club on his western tour, which begins the last of August. He decided also to make another trip early in October, in which he will speak to the Knights of Columbus of Peoria, Ill., on Oct. 12, and in Atlanta, Ga., on "Uncle Remus" Day, which he said he thought was Oct. 17.

Colonel Roosevelt was asked about the report published that an operation on his throat was to have been performed Monday morning. He laughed aloud in his boyish way.

"Why, the first I heard of it," he said, "was when Senator La Follette arrived here and told me he had read the report. I have never even heard of the doctor who it was said was to perform that operation. How do you suppose such stories about me become current? You can see for yourself not only that there is nothing wrong with my throat, but that I am in perfect physical condition."

As he sat there, vibrant with vitality, with not a sign of fatigue after his recent exercise, he added that he had had no trouble with his throat since his return from abroad or, in fact, since the time King George's physician treated him.

LONG LEGAL BATTLE UNDER WAY TO KEEP PORTER CHARLTON FROM BEING EXTRADITED TO ITALY FOR THE MURDER OF HIS WIFE

The temporary residence of the defendant, Porter Charlton, charged with the murder of his wife, is at 204 West 10th St., New York City. Charlton is 21 years of age; he was born Omaha, Neb.; he is married, by a second wife, a lady, aged 17. In reference to the charge made against me: My wife and I lived very happily together. She was the best woman in the world to me. But she had an uncurable temper and was very frequently quarrelled over the most trivial matters and her language to me was very foul, language which I never did not know the meaning of. I am sure. The night I killed her she had been quarrelling with me. It was the worst temper I ever saw in a woman. I told her that if she did not cease I would leave her. She said she would quit for a while and after a short time she would be home. I was dazed and struck her with a blow of a hammer that I had been using to straighten out the leg of the couch. She had been using it to straighten out the leg of the couch. She was dead. I then placed her body in the trunk and threw the trunk out the door. I remained at the house until the next day and then I took the steamer Princess Irene about four days later. The room where I killed her was a sort of an outdoor sleeping apartment. I am sure.

Bridgeport, O., June 28.—Dynamiting and rioting marked the beginning of a strike today that closed the Laughlin sheet mill of the Whitaker-Glossner Steel company, employing 1,200 men. The majority of the men quit work rather than labor with a few who refused to contribute a ten per cent assessment for the benefit of the 1,000 tin workers on strike against the American Sheet and Tin company.

HUBBY PEEPED

Knot Hole in Floor Enabled Him to Trap His Wife Who Was Entertaining Male Companion.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 28.—Frank H. Talbot, a Bradlock machinist, told the court during the trial of his divorce suit against his wife how he had trapped her, after finding that she was being visited by another man whom he caught at his home.

Talbot said that after he discovered his wife was receiving company, he told her he was going away over night, but returned and hid in the collar. He continued:

"There was a peep hole in the floor, and I could see and hear my wife and a man up in the kitchen. They went upstairs and I followed. Then I called for a police officer, and my wife ran from the house while I hid it out with the man whom I later arrested."

The wife failed to contest the proceedings.

FAVORS PENSION FOR TEACHERS

Sandusky, June 28.—In an address before the State Teachers' Association today, Hon. E. A. Jones, ex-school commissioner of Ohio, endorsed the sentiment of the teachers of the state when he urged a state pension system for teachers. Dr. S. B. Dyer, superintendent of the Cincinnati schools, touched on the question of salaries. He said that while salaries ought always to be high enough for "decent support" teachers are measured by what they give, rather than what they get.

DRESSES MADE BY GRADUATES

New York, June 28.—Wearing dresses which cost from 72 cents to $1.75, 243 girl graduates of the Washington Irving high school made a big hit at their graduation exercises last night with everybody but the fashionable modistes who had hoped to make their graduation gowns. The dresses were made of lawn and muslin by the girls themselves and were as fluffy and bewitching as the $10 and $20 gowns of other graduation classes. The innovation originated with Miss Muriel Willard of the dress-making department of the school.

WITH THE BIG FIGHTERS IN THE TRAINING CAMPS

(By Max Baithaar.)
Jeffries Training Quarters, Moana Springs, Reno, Nev., June 28.—Jim in good shape. He is beginning to get a little bit cranky. If he didn't show a little crumb at this stage of the game I'd think something was wrong with him. This is the word that is passed more in gladness than in sorrow by the members of the Jeffries training staff today, and if there is one barometer better than another as the fight day for James J. Jeffries approaches, it is to see the "hope of the white race" show peevishness. Although he is much more tractable today than he has been in any of his other important battles so near to the clang of the cone that old feeling which all of his trainers for the sake of their own comfort have been dreadfully beginning to assert itself. It is true his disposition is such as not to make it comfortable for his camp mates, but they are not his work and his actions more of the right now than at any time since the giant confound to Farmer Burns four weeks ago that his condition has returned, that he had regained his old power and speed and that his strength which is now a source of comfort to his camp mates.

With this feeling of optimism, inspired by the more energetic showing the results of the battle have built a great desire for activity. The American, the big negro has built the duration of the battle down to seconds and this Jeffries will be good enough to Johnson will fight to have a nice slice of pie to eat in the very first round.

Farmer Burns is more optimistic, not because he is any less confident in his ability to win, but because he is more confident in his ability to win with Jeffries. He thinks he will win with Jeffries and if the fight goes beyond that he will bet his clothes that the negro will be a badly punished man and a loser.

"If it goes 'rounds," says Burns, "it will simply resolve itself into a case of endurance, and if there is anything that Jim has on Johnson it is endurance."

Roger Connell, the great conditioner, agrees with Burns.

WARDANI IS HANGED FOR CRIME

Execution in Cairo, Egypt, Was Secret and Assassin Posed as Martyr

TROOPS GUARD PRISON

Crime Called for Scathing Denunciation by Roosevelt in Address to Students of University of Egypt.

Cairo, Egypt, June 28.—Ibrahim Wardani, a nationalist student, whose assassination early in the year of Premier Boutros Pasha called for a scathing denunciation at the hands of Colonel Roosevelt, when the latter spoke before the students of the University of Egypt, was hanged here today for his crime. The execution occasioned intense excitement owing to the fear of a demonstration by the nationalists. The government however made ample provision against this and there has not yet been the least disorder although the nationalists are holding meetings throughout the city.

Wardani ascended the scaffold proclaiming himself a martyr, a role that he had assumed since the commission of the crime.

"I die for the cause of Egyptian liberty," were his last words.

The hanging was secret even the newspapermen being excluded from the prison yard where the scaffold was erected. The prison was entirely surrounded by troops, while hundreds of troops patrolled the streets and mingled with the crowds on the streets. No large gatherings were permitted.

Wardani shot Premier Boutros Pasha as the latter was entering his carriage. He proclaimed he killed the premier to bring the attention of the English government to alleged wrongs of the Egyptians.

In his address to the students of the Egyptian University on March 25, Colonel Roosevelt set Egypt by the ears by denouncing the crime. In part he said: "All good men, all men of every nation whose respect is worth having, were inexpressibly shocked by the assassination of Boutros Pasha. It was a greater calamity to Egypt than a wrong to the individual himself. The type of man that turns assassin is the type possessing all the qualities which alienate him from good citizenship; the type producing poor soldiers in time of war, and worse citizens in time of peace. Such a man stands on the pinnacle of evil and infamy. Those apologizing for or condoning his act, by word or deed, directly or indirectly encouraging such an act in advance or defending it afterward, occupy the same bad eminence. It is of no consequence whether the assassin is Moslem or Christian, or with no creed or whether his crime was committed in political strife or industrial warfare."

"The rich man's hired act performed by a poor man, whether committed with the pretense of preserving order or of obtaining liberty is equally abhorrent in the eyes of all decent men and in the long run equally damaging to every cause the assassin professes."

In London in his Guild Hall speech Roosevelt called upon England to adopt a firm policy in ruling the Orient and to get out of Egypt and turn that nation over to some country which would.

It is reported that in his present excitement, fearing to seek reelection on his long public record in Congress and in the state his one hope is that Mr. Roosevelt may create a precedent in his behalf by speaking for him as an old friend. It is hardly to be expected that the former president would lend himself to the political support of a man even though a friend, who has committed a crime which is the moral teaching of which he is the great exponent.

Mr. Ames in his statement says he becomes a candidate after having failed to induce anyone else to "take up the fight against Boss Lodge and his political machine."

PLEASED WITH THE TICKET

Immediately after the Dayton convention Governor Patton said in an interview:

"I have never seen a stronger ticket nominated by the Democrats of Ohio, not speaking of the head of the ticket, of course. I am pleased with it all the way through. The men who are on the ticket with me are all clean cut fellows in whom the people of Ohio have confidence. If elected they will give the people the best that is in them. I expect the entire ticket to be elected."

That is hopeful and encouraging talk. If the ticket selected at Dayton suits Judson Harmon it will suit a majority of the voters of Ohio better than any ticket the G. O. possesses at Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo may fix up in Washington to be formally nominated at the convention to be held in Columbus the latter part of July.

The governor has the right idea about the whole ticket being elected. After an experience of one term, he realizes what the people themselves did not seem to fully realize two years ago—the handicap of opposition by a hostile legislature and Republican state officials allied with the bosses who control the G. O. organization in Ohio.

There is going to be no such mistake this year. The people intend to re-elect Governor Harmon and back him up by electing his associates on the ticket and a legislature with a Democratic majority in both branches to help him in his fight against graft for taxation reform and for conducting state institutions and departments on strictly business methods.

The voters of Ohio are as pleased with the Harmon ticket as the governor himself is or can be; and their campaign slogan for 1916 is, "Harmon and a clean sweep next time."

CENTRAL COMMITTEE MEETS JULY 9TH

The Democratic Central Committee will meet at the convention room of the court house on Saturday, July 9th at 2 p. m. for purpose of appointing an executive committee and transacting any other business that may come before said meeting. A full attendance is desired.

F. E. SLABAUGH, Chairman
ARTHUR BOLLWIN, Secretary.

For Headaches.

There Isn't Any Headache Remedy That Does The Work Like HICKS' CAPUDINE.

It gives quick relief from Headaches of all kinds, including Sick or Nervous Headaches, and Headaches caused from heat, cold, grip or stomach troubles. Capudine is also the best and quickest remedy for attacks of Cold or Grip. It soon relieves the aching and feverish and restores normal condition. Capudine is liquid—easy and pleasant to take—acts immediately. 10c., 25c. and 50c. at drug stores.

LEGISLATURE NEEDED TO STAND BY HARMON

When all attending circumstances are taken into consideration it becomes evident that the election of a United States senator to succeed Senator Dick is not wholly the most important duty to be performed by the next legislature. It is of the greatest importance to the people of Ohio that they have a legislature that will co-operate with and support Governor Harmon in bringing to a successful issue legislation that was mangled, left unfinished, or wholly omitted by the present legislature after two stormy sessions in which partisan antagonism was stronger than reason.

The matter of taxation immediately concerns the people of this state, and it must be considered and dealt with more perfectly at the session of the legislature elected this fall which, under an act passed at the last session, will begin next January. Citizens of Ohio, especially those who realize the gravity of taxation reform, have before them the unfinished and unsatisfactory work of the last session as an example of what they may expect if another legislature of the same kind is elected this year.

Senator Aldrich, of course, would miss Dick, but the people of Ohio need a legislature with a Democratic majority in both branches to stand by Governor Harmon.

Thus it is seen that the election of a legislature to support Governor Harmon in dealing with state affairs immediately confronting the people of Ohio is of the first and highest importance. The selection of a senator to succeed Dick becomes a matter of interest of course. No matter whom a Democratic legislature might send to Washington in Dick's place, he would be a big improvement over Dick—and over Burton, too, for that matter—and the highest purpose would be served in giving Governor Harmon the right kind of a legislature.

VERY WRY FACES

Wade Ellis probably thought he got off a witty remark when he said, "the Republicans have been making history and the Democrats making faces," but it will hardly do for a campaign slogan.

Nobody ever made such faces as Republican voters of Ohio made when President Taft named Wade Ellis receiver of the Republican party in Ohio. That was a case of "making history" and "making faces" in which Democrats took no part, but they enjoyed it as onlookers just the same. Under Presidential whip and spur the Sixty-first Congress has made some maling pretense of redeeming the promises under cover of which it secured a continuing control of Federal affairs. It failed to revise the tariff in the public interest. This is the great undermining evil that is sapping the foundation of good government. The Congress also failed to curb the frightful extravagance and waste that has no parallel in the fiscal history of nations.

If our multi-millionaires wish to perform an act of a truism they are commended to the Sultan of Sulu who wishes to dispose of his rivers of Oriental pearls for the sole benefit of his poor subjects who have become connections of the people of the United States.

ECHOES OF LAST SESSION.

Fight Over Labor Amendment Was Short, but Exciting.

PRESIDENT HAD HIS WAY.

Washington Now Discussing the Approaching Congressional Campaigns. Speculation Over Roosevelt's Attitude—The Conservation Row—Coming Senatorial Battles.

Washington, June 28.—One of the stiffest short fights of the session was that over the Hughes labor amendment to the civil appropriation bill. The house had previously adopted this amendment, which exempted labor unions from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law. The senate struck out the provision, and the fight came on a motion by Representative Tamm to recede and concur in the senate's action. President Taft took a hand, as he did in every important fight in the close of the session. His influence was thrown against the labor amendment and in favor of the senate's action. As usual he had his way. The labor provision was defeated by the close vote of 138 to 120. The Democrats and insurgents supported it, but there were enough defections to give the regulars the victory. A number of Democrats refused to vote, three lined up against the amendment, and one insurgent, Madison of Kansas, not only voted to concur in the senate's action, but made a vigorous speech against the secondary boycott. Politicians are just now wondering about the effect of the fight on the elections. It is freely predicted that it will array organized labor more than ever before against the administration.

Has the Tide Turned?

The approaching congressional campaigns now form the one topic of conversation among those who yet remain in Washington, and the work of the session is chiefly interesting to the perceptive statesmen in its possible influence on politics. The regulars profess to believe that their cause has been much strengthened by the government's inaction against the railroads and by the forcing through of the Taft program. They are free to admit that the tide was against them up to the time that these events were pulled off, but are sure it has now turned. The Democrats insist that high prices, graft exposures and the tariff are the issues that chiefly interest the country, that whatever political capital might result from enacting the Taft program is neutralized by the fact that the Democrats and insurgents helped to put in many good features in the railroad bill and other measures and that the question of Cannonism is still up and will be a determining factor in the election of the next house.

Roosevelt Will Talk Principles.

The probable attitude of Colonel Roosevelt is still a subject of excited speculation, and the opinions range all the way from Taft optimism to "back from Elba." Certainly no one man ever kept the entire country guessing so long as has Roosevelt since he left the presidency. Friends of the administration candidly state that Oyster

Bay has been in corded communication with the White House. The Garfield-Pinchot contingent as confidently assert that the colonel is behind their program and will speak out when the time comes. Amid all this clamor I have heard one prediction that sounds sensible. A western senator who had been in consultation with Lodge told me he had it straight that Roosevelt did not intend to take sides at all; that he would talk principles and avoid personalities. In the language of this senator, "Roosevelt will speak for straight Republican doctrines and leave the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and all other factional disputes inside the party severely alone."

Conservation Row Personal.

This same senator who told me of the Lodge circular statement gave a new slant to the origin of the Ballinger-Pinchot row. In his view it was largely personal. Washington departmental life is full of hidden feuds and jealousies. When Ballinger was commissioner of the general land office there was natural rivalry among the three bureaus having to do with public lands—the forestry bureau, headed by Pinchot; the reclamation service, under the direction of Newell; and the land office, presided over by Ballinger. The feeling persisted after Ballinger went to the head of the interior department and was intensified by the fact that Garfield had not been reappointed. In this senator's opinion, there was the cause of the trouble. One thing led to another, and the feud continued until it became public property and had involved the entire country in scandal.

Lodge's Hard Fight.

The senatorial campaigns in the various states have witnessed some new developments of interest. Perhaps the most important of these is the promise that Roosevelt will speak for Lodge in Massachusetts. The general opinion now is that Lodge will have little trouble in becoming the party nominee in his own state, although there is considerable insurgent sentiment. His fight will be with the Democrats, and it is freely predicted that the insurgent Republicans will not stop short of helping the Democrats carry the legislature. It is right here that a speech from Roosevelt will be a powerful help.

Trimmed hats, sailors and untrimmed hats will be sold at very low prices all of this week. Closs & Schanewaker's, 42 Hudson Ave. 28-31 & Wk.

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them" is a half and crush them is an annoyance that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little ones' stomach. Mothers who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and ten cents a bottle, just as so many others are doing, the free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin to get rid of the ills of life. Write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 187 Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Belford, 1710 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains no dangerous drugs. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure you.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. I explain your case in a letter and will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For other requests the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.510 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

POSTAL CO.

Obtains Injunction Against Subsidiary Bell Telephone Co., for Violation of Contract.

Los Cruces, N. M., June 28.—The Postal Telegraph company has obtained an injunction against a subsidiary Bell Telephone company in New Mexico for violation of a contract which the Postal company made with an independent telephone company last July for five years by which the Postal company reached a number of towns in New Mexico by an extension of its service from El Paso to Silver City, N. M.

The contract still has more than four years to run. A few weeks ago the New Mexico subsidiary Bell Telephone company bought out the independent telephone company with which the Postal had this contract, and then the subsidiary Bell company notified the Postal that the contract would be repudiated July first and connections cut off. The Postal company has obtained an injunction against such repudiation from the district court at Silver City and has set up that this action is due to a conspiracy between the Western Union and Bell Telephone companies to suppress telegraphic competition between El Paso, Silver City and intervening towns and other parts of the country. The validity of the combination of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the Western Union is directly attacked.

COACHED AT A COURTING

By HARRY VAN AMBERG

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

It was an afternoon in August. I was sitting on the Polands' piazza overlooking the ocean. Mrs. Poland was lounging beside me in a wicker chair. She is a good friend of mine. Mrs. Poland, although her husband and I were chums before they were married. She has never been at all jealous of me—something unusual in such cases. She invites me to her cottage every summer and is good enough to say that she would not consider a party complete without me.

I tell her I'm never complete without a party.

Mrs. Poland has a bobby. It is match-making. She tried to match me several times and always failed. The reason, she said, was that I did not understand women.

"I have a girl for you," she said. "I thought you had given me up."

"I have so far as your management is concerned. This time I wish you to leave your part of the affair to me."

"Now you're getting down to something practical. Who is the lady?"

"She comes tomorrow—Miss Annabel Vail. She is pretty, intelligent, stylish and has some means of her own, though not much."

"Very well. So long as you keep me instructed I'll do anything you like. But be it understood that I'm to have no hand to do on my own account. You understand?"

"Perfectly."

Miss Vail arrived as expected. She was all Mrs. Poland had claimed for her. On the afternoon of her arrival Mrs. Poland informed me that she expected me to drive with her guest. The carriage would be at the door at 4 o'clock. I told her I would be charmed to drive with Miss Vail if she thought the young lady could endure me without other company. We drove two hours and returned in time to dress for dinner. During the evening Mrs. Poland asked me how I liked Miss Vail, and I told her I had been much pleased.

"I doubt it," she said. "A man who is much pleased with a woman can find plenty to say to her. Miss Vail has told me that you didn't say anything but 'Yes' and 'No.'"

"I was always a good listener."

A sailing party was arranged for a day's outing on the water in Poland's yacht. Mrs. Poland instructed me before starting to devote myself almost exclusively to Miss Vail. My motto was "obey orders if you break own."

Miss Vail was very sensible, and

I escorted her to the side of the vessel and held her head. She noticed me away, but I clung to the job. Then, when she sank back into a reclining chair, considering that she was ill, I concluded that I must do all the talking myself. I talked till she told me if I would only go away and let her alone she would feel much relieved.

Mrs. Poland that evening told me very impatiently that I didn't know how to make myself agreeable to a girl, but it was impossible for any one to teach me.

"Haven't I done all you have told me to do?" I asked, very much crestfallen.

"Goodness gracious, do you expect your coach to follow you about to tell you when to talk and when to keep silent? Must you be worked like the figures in a Punch and Judy show?"

"From what you say Miss Vail has not been especially impressed with me."

"I wouldn't say so, except that it is all up with your suit, but she says you're the most aggravating man she ever met."

"Can't we wipe off the slate and begin all over?"

"You'd be the same"—

"Idiot?"

Mrs. Poland was silent. She was scolding me as she would scold one of her own children whom she dearly loved. There was nothing more to be said by either of us, so we dropped the subject.

Bridge was the game for the evening, and in order to show Mrs. Poland that I was willing to do all in my power to meet her wishes I invited Miss Vail to be my partner. She was very stupid at cards, and when she trumped my tricks, although I said nothing, I could not help looking grave. This she interpreted as condemnation and after finishing a rubber arose and left the table. Mrs. Poland was watching us and as soon as we were alone said to me:

"What did you scold her for?"

"Scold her? I didn't say a word."

"But you looked it."

I was discouraged. I made no reply.

"You'll never win that girl in the world. You wouldn't try any more to please me. I give it up."

The next day Mrs. Poland was very cross with me. I asked her if I had offended further. She said that I had not, but Miss Vail was so offended with me that she was intending to cut short her visit.

"That's too bad," I replied. "Not for the world would I consent to remain your guest after having driven a guest of yours from your house. I beg of you tell Miss Vail that it is I who am going. Let her remain."

"Oh, tell her yourself. I'm tired of the business."

I invited Miss Vail to go down on the beach with me. We remained there all the morning. When we returned Mrs. Poland asked:

"Which is to go?"

"Neither," I replied. "We're engaged."

CONFIDENCE WELL PLACED

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured Mrs. Sidle of Stomach Trouble So She Tried Them for Rheumatism and Got Well.

In cases of weak stomach where the patient is pale and the blood thin, the first step toward restoring the activity of the stomach is to improve the condition of the blood. A supply of rich, well-oxygenated blood is necessary to the processes of digestion and with it, if errors in diet are avoided, nature will work a cure. This is known as the tonic treatment for indigestion and is well illustrated by the experience of Mrs. Curtis Sidle, of No. 71 W. Larwill street, Wooster, Ohio, who suffered from stomach trouble for several years. Mrs. Sidle, whose husband is a retired farmer, is well known and respected in Wooster. Her experience follows:

"We formerly lived on a farm and I think my stomach trouble, from which I suffered for six years, was brought on by overwork. My blood was in bad condition and nothing that I ate agreed with me. I would have spells when my heart palpitated so that I would have to lie down. The constant suffering made me nervous and weak."

"Our doctor said my trouble was indigestion but I could not see that he helped me although I doctored with him for over two years. I was naturally discouraged and later when a friend urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I bought a few boxes for a trial. In a few days I saw a great change. I took the pills a while longer and was cured."

"About a year later I was taken with rheumatism which followed an attack of the grip. My left arm and shoulder were so crippled that I could not do my usual work and my left knee was swollen and gave me a great deal of pain. I went back to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they cured me of the rheumatism also. So I can recommend the pills highly and think they deserve all the praise that can be given them."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood so that it can nourish and strengthen the weakened digestive system has made hundreds of remarkable cures.

For further information about this treatment, send for our free book.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

A Visit to the Stars

"DADDY," asked Jack one evening when he and Evelyn were seated on daddy's lap waiting for their bedtime story, "can any one visit the stars?"

"I have heard of only one person doing so," was daddy's answer, "and she was a little girl just about Evelyn's size. It happened this way. It was on a bright, sunshiny summer's afternoon and quite warm. The little girl, whose name was Edith, had been playing on the lawn, and she was quite warm and just a wee bit tired when she came back to the house to rest. She sat down in the window seat and looked up into the sky.

"It must be a fine thing to go up there," said Edith to herself. 'I'd like to visit a star'.

"She had been sitting only a little while when she saw a tiny red light in the sky, right overhead. As she watched it it became bigger and bigger and came toward her. At last it rested on the window sill, and Edith saw that it was a great big balloon. There was a basket hanging from it, and as it reached the window sill out stepped two pretty fairies.

"We heard you say you would like to visit the stars," said one of the fairies, "and as you are a good little girl we have come to take you up to the sky with us. We are messengers of the fairy king, who lives in the sky."

"Then they asked Edith to step into the basket. She did so, and in a moment she and the fairies were sailing up to the sky. They had a perfectly lovely time up there, sailing from one star to another.

"After awhile Edith became hungry and asked the fairies whether they could get her something to eat. So the fairies turned the balloon toward the moon, which they said was made of green cheese. Edith had heard this before, but she did not really think it was true."

"Is it true, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"No, child," said daddy. "It is only a story. But, anyway, when Edith and the fairies reached the moon the man in the moon gave them each a nice cheese sandwich. Then they sailed away to a big pale yellow star near the moon, where the fairies said they could find some lemonade to drink. After that they visited Mars, which is a great, big red star, and plucked cherries from the cherry trees there. Edith was having a splendid time, sailing through the sky, visiting all the star people, and the fairies were just about to take her to the star in which the fairy king lived when something happened."

"What was that, daddy?" asked Jack and Evelyn together.

"Why, Edith's mamma called her, and she woke up. It was only a dream," said daddy.

BEAUTY MORE THAN SKIN DEEP. A Good Complexion Must Come from Within.
The natural desire of every ambitious woman is to have a clear skin and a beautiful complexion.
Not every woman can be a Diana or Juno, but the beauty of freshness and the bloom of a clear skin are within the reach of every woman who will make the effort.
It is all a matter of intelligent trying.
If the bowels are inactive, if the liver is not working properly, if the poisonous waste and refuse are not expelled promptly from the system, complexion is sure to show the effect.
The only right way to remove pimples, moth spots and blotches, and clear up a cloudy complexion, is to go right to the root of the trouble with the proper remedy.
The one remedy that will cure constipation, improve the complexion, tone up the liver and insure a clear, velvety skin is Seaver's Laxative Tonic Tablets.
You should have confidence, for the druggist will pay you back your money if the tablets do not benefit you as claimed.
